

I would like stronger enforcement of the FCC decency standards so the programming on network tv would be less crude, sexual and just plain gross. I remember well an episode of Will & Grace I happened to see where they talked about excrement along with all the revolting sexual innuendo & by-play. I will not watch that show again but I'm finding more & more of the same on other shows. I was just watching Sex & The City on TBS tonight & they were talking about how great anal sex is. Good grief. I guess I should have been warned by the title but I thought it was a show about girls young & clueless in New York. Well, they were certainly clueless about what's normal but they were old enough to know better. Yet another show I won't watch again. It's getting so bad that it seems there aren't any shows left that are decent. Please enforce the rules more stringently so tv will be more enjoyable again. Thank you for your time!
